The Turners

This is the Turner family.

They come from Hastings in Great Britain.

They moved to Gothenburg, Sweden one week ago.

Ken works at Volvo and Maria is a travel agent.

Write or talk about it!

- It's nice to be able to wear jeans and a sweater to school.
- What do you mean? Can't you wear jeans in England?
- No, every school has its own school uniform.
- You speak Swedish very well, Danny.
- Yes, my mother is Swedish. We often speak Swedish at home.

At 6.30 she gets dressed. She puts on her short black dress.

A few minutes later her friend Stina arrives.

At seven o'clock the garage is full of people. The music is loud and the whole place is very noisy.

The pan pizza and the bottles of cola are on the tables. They all sit down and start to eat.

The next day they continue their journey.
They drive towards Calais on the northern coast of France.

In 1992, a tunnel under the English Channel from Calais to Dover was completed.

You can't drive through the Eurotunnel, so cars have to be placed on special waggons.

The Eurotunnel

For Chris and Danny this was a new and thrilling way to cross the channel.

After a few hours drive they reach Oxford,
the end of the journey.
