1. Gosh!

It is the first day of school.

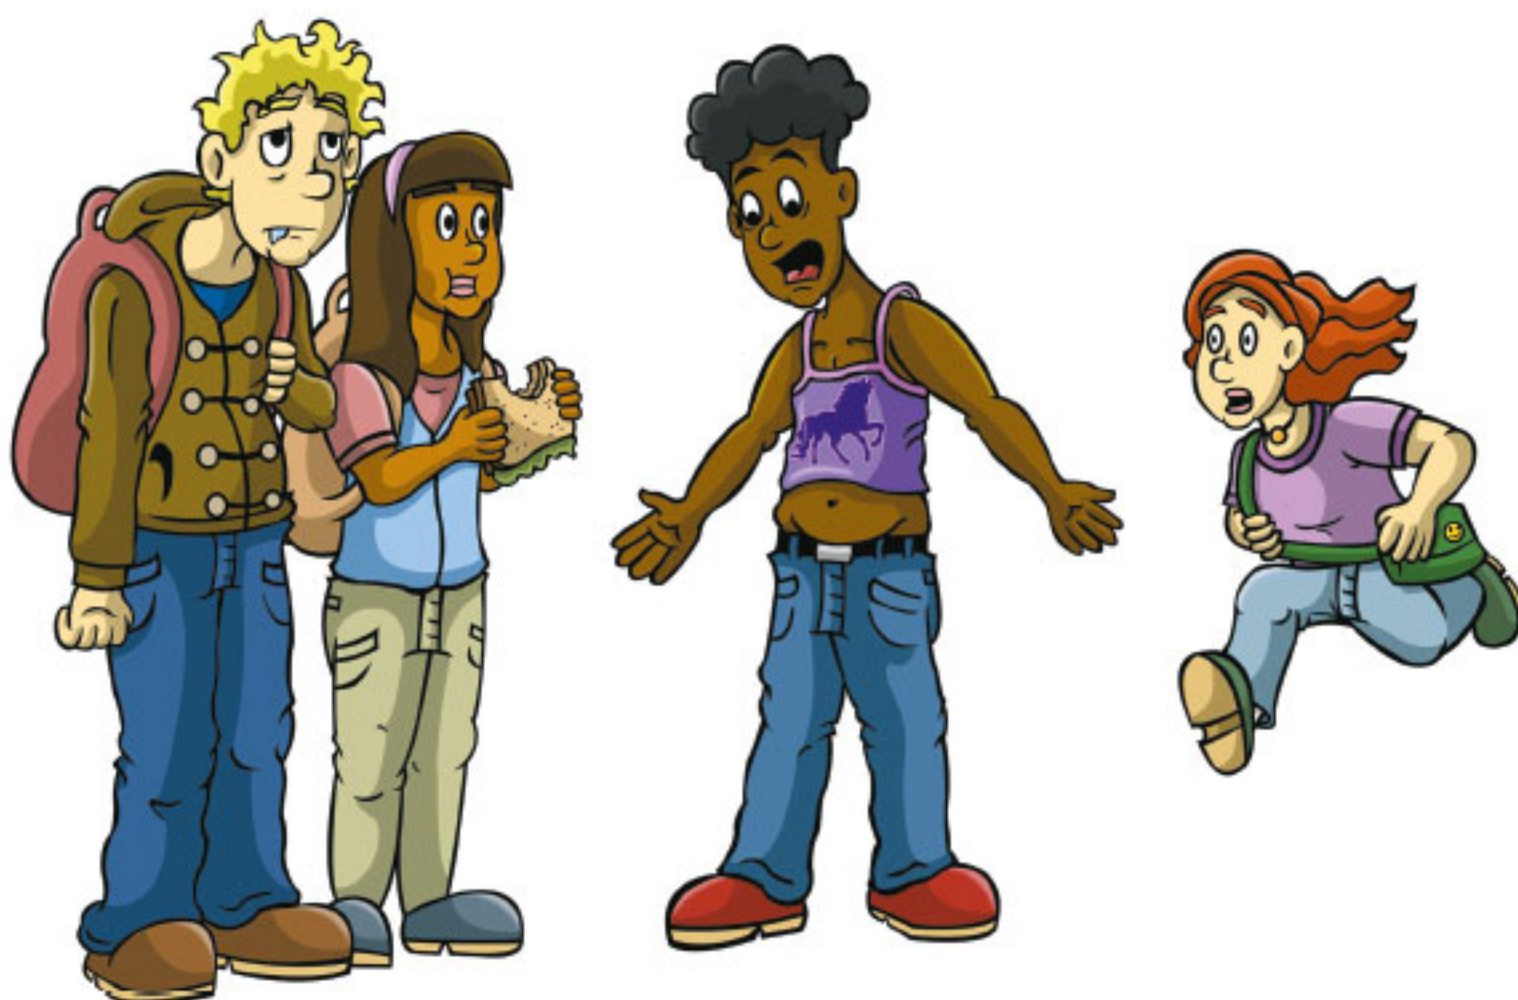

For Anne, Jim, Sue and Tom, it is very hard to wake up so early.

They aren't used to it. They are, of course, used to staying up late at night.

And they are used to not having to make a lot of decisions in a hurry.

Like what to have for breakfast. Or what to wear.

Or when to leave home to get to school in time.

Gosh - Oj, jösses

Used to - Van vid

Not having to - Att inte behöva

Make decisions - Bestämna, fatta beslut om

In a hurry - Snabbt, i brådska

Like what to have for breakfast -

Som vad de ska äta till frukost

When to leave home - När de ska gå hemifrån

In time - I tid

Exercise

4. Cheese, please

Follow the instructions

Write a party invitation.

Write this in your invitation:

1. Where will the party be?

(At your home? In a park? On a beach? On the moon? Or somewhere else?)

2. What day and what time?

3. Why do you want to have a party? What do you want to celebrate?

4. What do your friends need to bring? Or wear?

5. Will there be a cake, or popcorn, or burgers? What will you eat and drink?

Exercise

Draw a line to the correct answer.

How are you?	It's ten o'clock
What time is it?	I can do anything
What's the weather like?	Yes, please
Would you like some more?	It's Friday
How old are you?	I'm fine, thank you
What day is it?	It's snowing
Who are you?	I'm superman
What can you do?	I'm seventeen

Dialogue

Sue: I brought my own pan. And my own burgers, made of soya.

Tom: Yeah, right, Sue, you're a vegetarian. I almost forgot.

Jim: I brought French fries. I think we're going to need a lot of them.

Sue: Wow! Great! I'm starving!

Anne: I brought extra dressings, and fried onions.

Tom: Well, that's great, but I have lots of onions too. We can fry them as well.

Anne: The more, the better.

Jim: Okay, let's get started. Where are the hamburgers?

Tom: In the refrigerator, I think. Dad bought them yesterday.

I'm not sure where he put them.

Sue: I'll chop the tomatoes and onions.

Jim: I can't find the hamburgers in the refrigerator.

Tom: Look in the freezer. They might be there.

Jim: Right! Found them!

Anne: I'll put the fries in the oven.

Here we go. Looking good!

Tom: You're all working so hard.

Let me entertain you:

– How many hamburgers can you eat when your stomach is empty?

– Just one—after that, it's not empty anymore.

6. Can you say that name again, please?

Dialogue

Tom: What a day!

Jim: Yeah, that Welsh man...

Tom: He was nice!

Jim: Yes, but those names! They seem so difficult!

Tom: I know. How can anybody learn Welsh?

Jim: But the video he showed was very nice. All those mountains, and the sea.

Tom: I would like to go there.

Jim: Me too! And not only because of the beautiful nature and the sea!

Tom: I know! You want to see those road signs!

Jim: Of course! Don't you?

Tom: Sure I do. You know, I changed the ringtone of my phone.

Jim: Yeah? What to?

Tom: What do you think?

Jim: I have no idea!

Tom: Come on, Jim. Take a guess!

Jim: I don't know! Tell me!

Tom: Jim! You must guess!

Jim: Oh, no, Tom! You didn't!

Tom: Didn't what?

6. Can you say that name again, please?

Jim: Did you choose that song for your ringtone?

Tom: Let's say it at the same time.

Jim: Okay. Did you choose...

Tom+Jim: Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwlllantysiliogogoch!!!

Tom: Oh, yes, I did!

Jim: LOL! You're mad, Tom! I'm never going to call you again!
